

Divine, Divinity

A confrontation with divinity, your own higher intelligence, is going to change you. You'll face blazing activation of your brain.

An inconceivable beyond, "without conception," there flashes forth from its unknown depths the state of consciousness which is called divine.

As well as being filled with resplendent divine light, the transcendental domains are often described as existing beyond the ordinary senses.

Belief in the divinity of the Sacrament called for an act of faith, whereas the Mexican plants spoke for themselves.

Contemplation is that condition of alert passivity, the immanent and transcendent Godhead, the state of union with the divine Ground of all being.

Discovery of one's divine nature can lead to a way of being, on both an individual and a collective scale, incomparably superior to what is ordinarily considered the norm.

Divine madness is described by the Greek philosopher Plato as a gift from the gods: The greatest blessings come by way of madness, indeed of madness that is heaven-sent.

Eternity is now and in the light of unrepressed vision, the physical organism and the physical world turn out to be the divine world.

Every enhancement of the separate personal self produces a corresponding diminution of that self's awareness of divine reality.

Few people have much conception of what a religious experience really is. Few people have any idea how the divine process presents itself.

For more than four centuries, the Indians have kept the divine mushroom close to their hearts, sheltered from desecration by white men, a precious secret.

For the divine, the real is not the construct; it is the natural, nonverbal and indescribable order.

Go beyond your secular tribal mind to contact the many levels of divine energy which lie within your consciousness.

God is divided in play, in make-believe, but remains undivided in reality, so that when the play comes to an end, the individualized consciousness awakens to find itself divine.

I know myself to be part of a larger, unrestricted creative network that could be described as divine.

Immortality is participation in the eternal now of the divine Ground; survival is persistence in one of the forms of time. Immortality is the result of total deliverance.

In this state of knowledge of God, the mind is enlightened from out of the depths of divine wisdom which defy our scrutiny.

Isn't the whole point of psychedelics to break down the walls of absurdity and reestablish a divine intuition amongst the human species on this good earth? Well, of course it is.

Many people discover a deep connection with an inner source, higher self, or God, and they might experience the world as an expression of the Divine.

Many people report visions of brilliant light with a supernatural quality radiating divine intelligence or experience God as pure spiritual energy permeating all.

Modern man no longer regards Nature as being in any sense divine and feels perfectly free to behave towards her as an overweening conqueror and tyrant.

Mythological images are endowed with special power and numinosity that gives them divine status. (eyes closed)

Nobody has yet invented a Spiritual Calculus in terms of which we may talk coherently about the divine Ground.

On the threshold of the most profound and ultimate depths, we are faced with the revelation that our experience is contained within the depths of the Divine life itself.

Once you have seen it all, experienced the divine flame, how can you play out a role in the silly TV drama of American society?

One becomes intoxicated with divine feelings and becomes free from anger and other negativities.

One can conceive of this great total pattern as having a transcendent uniqueness over and above the nature of its parts, that some might call its divinity.

Perennial philosophy sees humans as essentially commensurate with the entire universe and ultimately divine.

Pervasive feelings of the "All rightness of the Universe" and a humble gratitude are the overwhelming emotional responses to union or communion with the divine.

Purged and purified, the soul approaches union with the Divine. Light, love and joy have become the only realities.

Sexual love may be transformed into a type of worship in which the partners are for each other, incarnations of the divine.

Subjects see new dimensions in the world and in the universe and tend to regard ordinary things and activities in everyday life as manifestations of the divine.

Suchness of the divine Ground of all being reveals itself to those in whom there is no ego-centeredness, either of will, imagination, feeling or intellect.

The archetypal visions accompanying the experience of cosmic unity are of heavens, celestial cities, paradisiacal gardens, and radiant divine beings. (eyes closed)

The avatar, the divine one is he who discovers and lives out this rhythm during his earthly trip.

The beautiful forms of life upon the earth combine and swirl and couple and embrace in the most incredibly intricate, divinely magnificent spectacle conceivable.

The concept of human life as a life-and-death struggle for survival gives way to a new image of a cosmic dance or divine play.

The conscious ego doesn't know that it is something which that divine organ, the body, is only pretending to be.

The devil is part of your mind that wants you to cop out and sell short your timeless divinity.

The divine Ground of all existence is a spiritual Absolute, ineffable in terms of discursive thought, but susceptible of being directly experienced and realized by the human mind.

The divine Ground of all existence is not merely a continuum, it is also out of time (beyond time, eternal).

The divine process operates in time dimensions which are far beyond our routine secular space-time limits.

The drug-induced experience has been regarded by primitives and even by the highly civilized as intrinsically divine.

The existence of the immanent and transcendent divine is not a matter of unfounded belief but a fact based on direct experience.

The law against LSD is a violation of a people's God-given right to experience their own divinity.

The soul emerges into the radiance of the Divine Light and experiences spiritual rebirth, salvation, redemption, resurrection, reunion.

The subject becoming aware of himself as continuous with the energy of the universe, feels himself to be filled by divinity.

The two worlds, the divine and the human, are actually one. The realm of the gods is a forgotten dimension of the world we know.

The virtue of wisdom, more than anything else, contains a divine element which always remains.

The whole world of men and nature acquires an atmosphere that we may call variously divine, luminous, enchanted, timeless, archetypal.

There is a plastic film between you and the divine process around you. It's your egocentricity, your deadening mind.

There is a point at which explanation comes to a full stop, a point beyond which lies only the mystery of the divine being.

There is indeed an almost universal tendency to express the divine in terms of radiating light.

There was a time when the Jews exalted a man and made him divine and then nailed him up when they discovered he was human after all.

They might begin to see the whole life process as a miraculous cosmic drama that is carefully orchestrated by a divine cosmic force.

This is what Jesus taught and demonstrated—cosmic consciousness, the direct experience of divinity dwelling in us and all things.

Through the Greek Mysteries, men became gods and celebrated their divinity in the ecstatic light-space geometries of the great temples.

To believe that God is angry at sin and that His anger cannot be propitiated except by the offer of a certain sum of pain is to blaspheme against the divine Nature.

True humor is, indeed, laughter at one's Self—at the Divine Comedy, the fabulous deception (of the ego).

Under the protection of their evening shadows, the farther water lay like a divine child asleep, watched by an eternal nurse.

Wake up! You are God! You have the Divine plan engraved in cellular script within you. You'll be reborn.

You are going to face blazing illumination of the divinity. It's going to change you completely. You're never going to be the same. Do you want to do it?

Any and every shape—human, divine, diabolical, heroic, evil, animal, thing—which the human brain conjures up or the past life recalls, can present itself to consciousness: shapes and forms and sounds whirling by endlessly.

Any contact with divinity not subject to priestly mediation and formulation in terms of traditional doctrines appears as a threat to the political and social order, and may be classified as madness or vice.

Due in part to their ineffable and boundless nature, the divine domains are difficult to describe, although poets and mystics of all ages have created beautiful metaphors to approximate them.

During some spiritual states, one sees the ordinary environment as a glorious creation of divine energy, filled with mystery; everything within it appears to be part of an exquisite interconnected web.

Encounters with the divine regions are extremely healing. Reaching them, one often feels positive emotions such as ecstasy, rapture, joy, gratitude, love, and bliss, which can quickly relieve or dissolve negative states such as depression and anger.

Every woman has built into her cells and tissues the longing for a hero, sage-mythic male, to open up and share her own divinity. But casual sexual encounters do not satisfy this deep longing.

In order to become directly acquainted with God, rather than merely to know about God, one must go beyond symbols and concepts, which are obstacles to the immediate experience of the divine.

It is a direct and immediate awareness that we are dealing with something that has a divine nature and is radically different from our ordinary perception of the everyday world.

Many people describe passing through a dark tunnel or funnel that brings them to light of supernatural brilliance and beauty, a divine being that radiates infinite, all-embracing love, forgiveness and acceptance.

Perennial philosophy offers a rich spectrum of spiritual techniques through which it is possible to recognize and experience one's own divinity and achieve liberation from suffering.

Peyote produces self-transcendence in two ways—it introduces the taker into the Other World of visionary experience and it gives them a sense of solidarity with his fellow worshippers, with human beings at large and with the divine nature of things.

Sexual union that occurs in the context of a powerful emotional bond can take the form of a profound mystical experience. All individual boundaries seem to dissolve and the partners feel reconnected to their divine source.

So long as man feels himself to be the ego, to deprive him of freedom or the sense of freedom is to subject him to the despair of being a mere pawn of the divine tyrant. (No tyrant is divine.)

Spiritual grace originates from the divine Ground of all being and it is given for the purpose of helping man to achieve his final end, which is to return out of time and selfhood to that Ground.

Terror at the confrontation with the Divine is natural and instinctive and has been felt by every voyager on the great journey beyond the self. It's the fear of death, the loss of control. (There is no death and it's the ego that fears, loses control and "dies".)

The enlightened individual goes beyond grammar. He has what may be called a "grammar-transcending" experience" which permits him to live in the consciousness of the divine continuum of the world and to see the one continually manifest in the many.

The liberating aspect of rebirth and the affirmation of positive forces in the universe are frequently expressed in visions of radiant, blinding lights that has a supernatural quality and seems to come from a divine source.

The religion of direct experience of the divine has been regarded as the privilege of a very few people. I personally don't think this is necessarily true at all. I think that practically everyone is capable of this immediate experience.

The spirituality revealed in the process of focused self-exploration sees God as the Divine Within. Here the individual uses various techniques that mediate direct experiential access to transpersonal realities and discovers his or her own divinity.

The wonder of LSD is that it can bring within the capabilities of ordinary people the experience of universal love and the reality of our divine nature which was once possible only to the mystics.

There cannot be, in the ultimate analysis, different Gods for different religions. We may look upon God differently, we may have different approaches to the divine, but this force or power that we call God must be there for all.

Thou shalt evolve to a higher plane of being and ultimately return to the Godhead which is your very self, your ever-present Divine Condition prior to all conditions, names and forms.

Trust your sense organs and your nervous system. Your divine body has been around a long, long time, much longer than any of the social games you play. Trust the evolutionary process. It's all going to work out all right.

We have suggested that the divine mushroom played a vital part in shaking loose early man's imagination, in arousing his capacity for self-perception, for awe, wonder and reverence. They certainly made it easier for him to entertain the idea of God.

All of creation—people, animals, plants and inanimate objects—seems to be permeated by the same cosmic essence and divine light. A person in this state suddenly sees that everything in the universe is a manifestation and expression of the same creative cosmic energy and that separation and boundaries are illusory.

An important characteristic of collective and racial memories is the fact that the subject experiences them as insights into the diversity of cultural groups within the human race, illustrations of the history of mankind or manifestations of the cosmic drama and divine play. (eyes closed)

Could it be that the universe is, in the final analysis, just a divine play of consciousness where all natural laws are ultimately arbitrary, and where any one of us, at any time, can somehow access any material that ever existed or will exist for anyone, anywhere, unfettered by the illusions of matter, space, and time?

Here, the individual feels that he is experiencing the innermost divine core of his being. His individual self is losing its seemingly separate identity and is reuniting with what is perceived as its divine source, the Universal Self. This results in feelings of immediate contact or identity with the Beyond Within, with God.

“Holy madness” or “divine madness” is known and acknowledged by various spiritual traditions and is distinguished from ordinary insanity; it is seen as a form of intoxication by the Divine. Revered seers, mystics, and prophets are often described as inspired by madness.

In the final analysis, only the creative principle of Cosmic Consciousness exists. Only it takes physical form. From this point of view, the entire universe is a divine play of one Supreme Being. Anyone who grasps this concept will see that karmic appearances are just another level of illusion.

Organized religion had little offer. Faith in an invisible divinity was not enough. What LSD promised was the direct, unmediated experience of self-transcendence—the mystical enlightenment where we KNOW what the philosophers and the prophets talk about.

The fates of nations and the lives of billions of people have been profoundly affected by the divine illuminations of spiritual prophets. We have only to remember the revelations of Buddha under the Bo tree, Moses on Mount Sinai, Jesus in the desert, Paul on the road to Damascus, and Mohammed during his visionary night journey for evidence of this.

The great religious leaders all found the same thing when they looked within. They all talked about the inner light, the soul, the divine flame, the spark or seed of life or the white light of the void. Those are clumsy metaphors for what are actually physiological processes within the nervous system.

The human mind is not limited to biographically determined elements of the Freudian unconscious; it has no boundaries or limits and its dimensions are commensurate with those of the entire universe. From this point of view, it is more correct to see human nature as divine than as bestial.

The inner experience of the spiritual Self and its intimate association with the personal self, gives a sense of internal expansion, of universality and the conviction of participating in some way in the divine nature. In the religious traditions and spiritual doctrines of every epoch one finds numerous attestations on this subject.

The person feels a deep connection with the innermost spiritual core of his or her being. The illusion of the individual self fades away and the person enjoys reunion with his or her divine Self, which is also the Universal Self, the cosmic source of all existence. This is a direct and immediate contact with the Beyond Within, with God.

There exists in all human beings an urge to self-transcendence, a wish to escape from the prison of personality, a longing to become something other and greater than the all-too-familiar Me. The religious man has attributed this universal urge to self-transcendence to the workings of an innate and deep-seated yearning for the divine.

True sanity entails, in one way or another, the dissolution of the normal ego and a new kind of ego functioning, the ego now being the servant of the divine, no longer its betrayer. (You are the divine and your ego should serve you and your divinity or it should flake off, take a hike, get lost and leave you alone.)

Willingness to be insecure is the ultimate security. Willingness to suffer is the essence of divine joy. Willingness to be finite is to know one's own infinity. Willingness to be a slave is to be truly free. Willingness to be a fool and a sinner is to be both a sage and a saint.

The individual is flooded by light of supernatural beauty and experiences a state of divine epiphany. He or she has a deep sense of emotional, intellectual and spiritual liberation and gains access to breathtaking realms of cosmic inspiration and insight. This type of experience is clearly responsible for great achievements in the history of humanity in the area of science, art, religion and philosophy.

They're not interested in mystical experience at divinity schools. They're interested only in words and in history. If someone had a mystical vision a safe 2000 years ago and left some record of it, that might interest them. But mystical experience, the raw and vital force that gives rise to a religion, is too much for them to cram into their semantic, pseudoscientific endeavor to understand God.

All beings are the masks of the one, divine Self.

All creatures have existed eternally in the divine essence.

All forms of matter and all living beings are seen as patterns of divine consciousness.

Blissful divinity accompanies the ecstatic experience.

Discover and nurture your own divinity.

Discover your atomic, cellular, somatic, sensory divinity.
Divine grace does not obliterate nature but perfects it.
Divine realms come into a person's life, the heavenly inner realms.
Divinity is a do it yourself proposition, located somewhere inside your body.
Divinity is our birthright, our inheritance, nearer to us than hand and foot.
Each human being is born divine. The social system robs him of his divinity.
Each person is born divine and the purpose of life is to rediscover your forgotten divinity.
Every energy is divine.
Immerse yourself in the energy, the divine energy of creation.
Indians believe peyote to be of divine origin.
Indians use peyote as a means of communion with the divine world.
Individuals frequently encounter ecstatic or divine domains within themselves.
LSD helps you find divinity and helps you discover yourself, discover God and meaning.
Man can change and become divine in this lifetime.
Nature is full of genius, full of the divinity.
One often experiences the Divine as eternal and timeless.
Our insight into the divine plan becomes more awe-fully detailed.
Playfulness is the very nature of divine Wisdom.
Relax, float downstream, trust your divinity, trust your energy process.
Silence, like space and emptiness, is a natural symbol of the divine.
Step into the light of freedom and divine responsibility.
The confrontation with divinity is going to change you.
The Divine Comedy. All things dissolve in laughter.
The Divine is not "out there", but present within each of us.
The divine sight is opened.
The divine state simply IS, here and now and does not have to be attained.
The drug induced experience has been regarded as intrinsically divine.
The earth can be perceived as Mother Earth or a divine being.
The heart of God is absolutely, divine joy, colossal gaiety.
The meaning is divined rather than defined.
The perception of the infinite in a finite particular is a revelation of divine immanence.
The sexual impulse is not simply a biological drive, but also a divine, spiritual force.
The substance which produces the change of mind is regarded as divine.
The ultimate reason for human existence is unitive knowledge of the divine Ground.
To live means to be aware, joyously, serenely, divinely aware.
Trust your divinity. Trust your brain.
Use the senses to find inner meaning, divinity.
We can discover that the divine impulse is everywhere.
You are God, but only you can discover and nurture your divinity.
Your true and basic selfhood is divine.

I am aware that each man on the street has some spark of the divine.

I can now understand the psychology of divine inspiration or of magical thinking.
The gleam of the divine ravishes me.

For the first time, I was experiencing the universe for what it really is—an unfathomable mystery, a divine play of energy.

He felt that for the first time in his life he was experiencing the universe for what it really is—an unfathomable mystery, a divine play of energy.

He experienced a déjà vu of divine joy and understanding, as though stumbling upon a golden trove of submerged knowledge.

I was carried by this Light to an Ecstasy beyond ecstasy and suddenly I was no longer I, but a part of the Divine Workings.

This unified divine vision seemed to be what she had been craving and waiting for her whole life.

As I wept with joy, feelings of love became so intense that I knew they could only be of divine origin and that this feeling was actually God residing within myself and in all other persons.

Subjects who had previously ridiculed alchemy and the ancient forms of divination suddenly discovered their deeper meaning and found genuine appreciation of their metaphysical relevance.

This recognition of the immortality of the divine in ourselves was not an intellectual process but rather a deep wisdom which had expressed itself through feelings so intense, I expect to remember them throughout life.

We had entered the cosmic state. It was divine. It was expansive and harmonious and beatific and one. I was alive! For the first time in my life I understood what it meant to be truly alive.

With all my being transfixed in the moment that answered the quest of my life, I shuddered in my soul and with new velocities of divining sight, I saw our universe sphering on its destiny.

People came out of these sessions reeling with awe, overwhelmed by experiences of oneness with God and all other beings, shaken to the depths of their nature by the grandeur and power of the divine life-energy processes going on within their own consciousness.

I felt that somehow every person must be made to recognize the divine within himself and that such a recognition would influence his every action throughout life. It seemed to me that our lives were hopelessly confused and cluttered with mundane things of no real importance; and that the matter of greatest importance, the presence of a God part in each of us, lay within our reach at all times.

A deep gratitude came for the privilege of seeing this divine part of myself and others. A divine calm swept through my soul.

Everything you looked at was pulsing and glowing with divine radiance.

I felt in touch with a sense of divinity within.

I had a sudden awakening to the innermost divinity of all things.

I knew beyond the shadow of any doubt that there was a divine spirit behind all creation.

I was melting into that iridescent current of divine love.

One pot was so endowed with divinity that I wouldn't come closer than 4 or 5 feet.

The essence of the experience was the encounter with the divinity within.

The music sounded divine.

There was just the Great Divine, ineffable yet tangible.

We resumed our divine dance, effortlessly, timelessly, in tune with the pulse of the house.

a special kind of feeling or intuition or realization—a sense of the oneness of all things in their divine principle a sudden breaking through from “reason” to intuitive “intellect” capable of a genuine insight into the divine Ground of all being blindness to divine Reality—complete ignorance of the reason and purpose of human existence common mythological theme—that the universe arises from the sacrificial dismemberment of a divine being emerging from the experience with the understanding that they are divine and so is everyone and everything else feeling that what is apprehended is holy, sacred or divine, feelings of blessedness, joy, peace, happiness, etc.

higher levels and states of mind that lead to the realization of one’s divine nature and God consciousness

Leary—Doctor of Philosophy, A. Watts—Doctor of Divinity, Huxley—Secretary of Nature make life in all its aspects seem not only worth living, but divinely beautiful and significant realization of the higher intelligence, the divinity, the Ground of Being, the ground which is the source of all Becoming rebinding or re-tying ourselves to the divine source of our being—the source we have lost awareness of that unitary state of divine harmony, an existence in which only the sense of wonder remains and all fear is gone the confused epoch of modern psychiatry where there was no place for the extraordinary or the divine the divine source of our being—the source we have lost awareness of, what religion is all about the genius for knowing the Holy, the awesome knowledge that the stuff of which we are made is also Divine.

the modification of consciousness until it ceases to be ego-centered and becomes centered in and united with the divine Ground the moment of awakening, when the voyager discovers the wonder and awe of the divine life process the sage or “divine-man” whose consciousness transcends the opposites and who, therefore, knows himself to be one with the cosmos the subject becoming aware of himself as continuous with the energy of the universe, feels himself to be filled by divinity

“the transcendent unity of religions,” the notion that underlying all the world’s greatest religious traditions, there is a single and shared transcendent vision of the Divine the world of miracle and beauty and divine mystery when experience is what it always ought to be

this experience of encounter with what is felt to be a divine dimension deep within a person

those Other Worlds of transcendental experience where the soul knows itself as unconditioned and of like nature with the divine to make life in all its aspects seem not only worth living, but divinely beautiful and significant to touch that universal, to taste it, to touch the mystery, to touch the One, to touch the divine

visions of light that has a supernatural radiance and beauty and is usually perceived as divine

what all of us have always been, a part of the divine substance, a manifestation of love, joy and peace, a being identified with the One Reality windows in the soul through which can be seen images created not by human but by the divine imagination

a state of which, because there are no longer any God-eclipsing obstacles between themselves and Reality, they are able to be aware continuously of the divine Ground of their own and all other beings direct spiritual experiences, such as feelings of cosmic unity, a sense of divine energy streaming through the body, death-rebirth sequences, visions of light of supernatural beauty

experiences of a world transfigured into unimaginable loveliness, charged with intrinsic significance and manifesting, in spite of pain and death, an essential and divine All-Rightness

man’s fall from original innocence and integrity, his remoteness on this earth from Divine vision (We were all born innocent and Divine. Conditioning and ego have robbed us of our lives. LSD can get us our lives back. Is anything more important?)

a direct, unlimited understanding of the divine nature

a divine dance

a divine ecstasy

a divine gracefulness

a divine spark of energy in one’s heart

a sense of divinity

an eternal, divine now

an experience beyond time, of union with the divine Ground

an experience of the divine an immediate consciousness of the divine glory an infinite mode of existence understood as the divine awareness of the divine Suchness beholding the glories of the Divine face to face beyond everything, BEYOND, eternity, above everything, divine brings each person to the awareness of man's divinity and essence communion with our own true self, with all others, with the divine communion with the divine world complete deliverance into union with the divine Ground direct communion with the Divine source of all Truth direct merging with the cosmos and with the divine divine beauty
divine compassion
divine consciousness
divine creativity
divine dimensions
divine energy
divine enlightenment
divine freedom
divine grace
divine love
divine in nature
divine madness
divine nature
divine play, the divine play of the universe divine purity
divine quietness
divine reality
divine revelation, divine revelations divine understanding divine vision
divine wisdom divinely inspired divinely radiant divinely significant encounter with the divine, a powerful, rapturous mystical state experience their own divinity and attain profound insights into the nature of reality experienced a deep reverential attitude to the divine experiences of divine inspiration experiences of the divine that are the living fount of all religion experiences of the "transcendent divine" experiencing divine truths experiential contact with the Divine Process fantastic visions of radiant sources of light experienced as divine, heavenly feel that they have been blessed with divine Providence feel themselves merge with divine realms that transcend daily reality felt as a powerful mystical opening and reconnection with the divine foolishness being a divine state genuine mystical and divine experiences glorious opening of heavens, revelation of the divine have entirely transcended the ego and re-identified with the divine his divine origin (or your divine origin) infinite divine intelligence Judeo-Christian distinction between divinity (“up there”) and the self (“down here”) LSD which can activate the awareness of the divinity within more beautiful, more divine than anything I could consciously imagine my newfound divine consciousness mystical union with the divinity our deepest and true nature, the divine within psychedelic visions of harmony, love, and trust in the sweet, divine energy of creation pursuit of the Divinity through the sacrament of LSD recognition of one’s own divine nature and insights into the universal order reunion with the divine Ground reveals the inner secrets of the universe and lifts man to the realization of his divinity see the world and themselves in terms of spiritual energy involved in a divine play seed of all there is, the Divine Mother sensations of transcendent beauty and divine wisdom spiritual birth—a powerful mystical opening and reconnection with the divine spiritual insight a gift of divine grace supreme divinity

swims joyfully in the ocean of divine ecstasy that playfulness of divine perfection that spirit of things divine the beauty and passion of nature, the divine warmth and radiance of the sun the continuity of the consciousness in man with the divine
The Cosmic Theatre, The Divine Comedy
the discovery of energies within which men call “divine” the discovery of one’s divinity the discovery of your divinity the divine aspects of reality the divine Beauty
the Divine beyond
the divine consciousness
the divine design
the divine dream
the divine essence
the divine essence of the world the “divine eye”, the gift of inner vision the divine ground of human consciousness the divine meaning
the divine meaning underlying the workings of the universe

the divine mind
the divine mysteries the divine nature: an expression of Pure Being, an expression of the divine joy the divine or higher Self the divine or timeless realm the divine order
the divine plan of the world the divine plant/god Soma as the inspiration for the Hindu religions the divine potion
the divine purity, the infinity of God the divine reality within and beyond us the divine realms
the divine source of all existence the divine spark in man the divine spark or spirit within every man the divine state
the divine union
the divineness of natural objects the divinity in everything the divinity of all manifestations of life the divinity of the day, the purity, the holiness of this moment in time the divinity of your body the divinization of sex the ecstatic sense of being one with divine truth the existence at the heart of things of a divine serenity and good will the forgetting of man's divine nature the great taboo, the realization of the divinity of the individual the importance of a true experience of the Divine the inexhaustible richness of the divine nature the infinite number of points where divine reality is wholly and eternally present the intellectual vision of Truth, the immediate, unitive knowledge of the divine Ground the liberating knowledge of the divine Ground the "magical link" through which the divine presence begins to manifest itself the new vision of the divine the nonverbal spiritual experience of the divine the one and indivisible divine energy the one divine reality
the oneness of divinity, the oneness of divine essence the power and breadth of the divine process the psychedelic road to divinity the real, divine world
the realm of the divine the revelation of Divine Truth the sense of the divine the state of divine mind the state of the divine mind the wonder, the mystery of the divine this divine spirit within himself (It's within you, too.)

this psychedelically induced Divine Comedy this tender garden of divine bliss to achieve union with their divine essence (our your divine essence) to awaken the spirit of self-divinity to awaken to your own divinity within to commune with the divine to discover and cultivate the divinity within each person to find the divine and to discover the self to flip out in the divine dance to float through that door yonder into the Divine Presence to get where it was all divine to go beyond all symbols to a direct experience of the basic fact of the divine immanence to restore the soul to the divinity it lost at birth to reveal deeper dimensions of the divine to see the divine essence in heaven union with the Divine union with the divinity unity with divine radiance universal divine consciousness visions of divine light, supernatural radiance and beauty visions of the divine what he or she in truth is—not the socially pretended person but the naturally divine when the human nature is united with the divine whose face was radiant with divine majesty would wake up to the essential divinity of the human being your divine nature
your 2 billion year old divinity